

Friday Morning, Feb. 8, 1881.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.—George Floyd, was found very drunk and disorderly night before last in the Fifth ward. Ald. McManaway sent him to jail for ten days.

THE COUNTRY SAFE.—James Buchanan, was arrested day before yesterday, in the act of stealing an over coat from the establishment of O. W. Heiskell on Fourth street. He was sent to jail by Ald. Wright.

THE WAYNESBURG BANK SOUND.—We see it rumored in the Wheeling and Pittsburgh papers that the Farmers and Drovers Bank of this place has failed.—We are happy to be able to correct this erroneous statement. Our Bank is sound to the core.—Waynesburg Republican.

THE RIVER.—There is still a good stage of water in the river, though it is falling rapidly. The wind blew so furiously yesterday that few persons ventured down to the landing, and everything thereabouts looked unusually dull. The steamer Alma, bound for New Orleans, was at the landing. She had a pretty good trip.

Passengers who arrived on the Atlantic from New Orleans report that Isaac Hamilton, alias "Beelzebub," a noted desperado from Jeffersonville, Ind., killed a deck hand on that boat just before leaving New Orleans. He was arrested.

BLIZZARD.—A high wind prevailed during all of Wednesday night, rattling the windows, swinging signs, and disturbing innumerable things generally, much to the grief of nervous people seeking repose.—With the morning the wind, instead of spending its force, increased in violence and snow commenced falling. The snow, instead of falling straight to the ground, was carried swiftly to the eastward, dashing boldly into the faces of all who encountered the wind, upon whose wings it was helplessly borne. The smoke was cut off from the chimney tops, and instead of being permitted to ascend, had its curls tossed and hurled in fragments towards the rising sun. Altogether it was a bad day to be out, and the streets were comparatively deserted.

COLD.—Last night was the coldest night beyond all doubt, that we have experienced this winter. The atmosphere bit and nipped one with invisible, invisible tweezers, and bound everything of an aqueous character in icy fetters. The wind whistled around the corners and shook the windows with a persistent fierceness. Last night's severity caught many a half clothed body and houseless head unprepared for its reception, and there were those budding and suffering together around dying embers, not a square from comfortable rooms, cozy fires and plenty.

Let the charitable look to the poor which we have with us, and relieve the suffering which we know much merciful weather must entail upon many deserving people.

A LOST DRAFT.—On the 22d of January a man named R. W. Clapp came to this city from New York. He was accompanied by a gentleman with whom he appeared to be very intimate. The two roomed together at the M'Lure House.—During Mr. Clapp's stay here he purchased a draft at the Merchants and Mechanics Bank, on a New York bank, for twelve hundred dollars, which he folded in an envelope and addressed to his wife in New York. He deposited it in the letter-box at the office of the House, along with another letter directed to his wife, which he announced the mailing of the draft. Since the departure of Mr. Clapp for the West, a letter has been received at the M'Lure House from Mrs. Clapp, announcing the receipt of the letter of her husband, but stating that the draft had not come to hand. It is now remembered by those connected with the M'Lure House that the gentleman who accompanied Mr. Clapp was seen to take one of the letters from the box before they were taken to the Post Office. The draft may have been disposed of by counterfeiting the name of the person in whose favor it was drawn, though we presume that the person buying it will be the loser.

REMOVED ELOPERMENT OF A PROFESSIONAL GENTLEMAN WITH A BANKER'S WIDOW.—The Daily Evening Gazette states that it is currently reported in Pittsburgh, that a well known physician, residing in a fashionable part of the city, some weeks since, abandoned his practice and family, and eloped with the widow of a deceased banker. The parties have both been absent from the city for some time, and the latest rumor is that they went away together, and after spending a few days in the east, took passage on a steamer for Europe. The lady was well known in certain circles, and sustained the relation of "mistress" merely to one of our leading brokers. The inevitable results of "fast living" developing themselves, he preferred the attentions of a wife, and married her, and at his death left her in possession of a good fortune. She lived in good style, and continued to keep house and maintain a position in society. The medical man leaves behind him a wife and family, greatly respected by their friends and acquaintances. He enjoyed a large and lucrative practice, and could have had no pecuniary motive in abandoning his family, although the fortune of his paramour doubtless formed an incentive to his flight. She owned and occupied a fine dwelling on one of our prominent streets, which is now tenanted, but as most of her means were of an available character, she will not lack for funds. The gentleman is about forty years of age. While the lady is somewhat younger, and rather prepossessing in appearance.

In Liverpool recently, while a lion-tamer named Maccombe was going through his performance with Bengal tigers, at the menagerie, a tigress caught his hand in her mouth. Planting his knee in the small of the tigress's back, and pressing her against the bars of the cage, then seized her lower jaw with the right hand, he held her powerless to do more than retain the left hand in her mouth. So cool was Maccombe in this trying position that lookers-on thought it part of the performance; but when he called to one of the keepers, "She has got my hand fast in her mouth; get a bar of hot iron," the truth of his dangerous position flashed through the minds of those present, and created the greatest excitement—one lady fainted away, others running from the painful sight. Four or five minutes elapsed before the iron was ready, during which time Maccombe stood as a piece of statuary, not a quiver of lip to show the pain he was enduring. When ready, the hot iron was applied quickly and surely by one of the keepers to one of the large teeth in the tigress's upper jaw, and, as though she had been electrified, her mouth sprang open. Maccombe, quick as lightning, drew his hand away, caught hold of a thick stick, struck the animal a terrific blow on the skull, brought her down, and forced her to finish her performance before he left the cage. When Maccombe came out of the cage, his bleeding hand testified to the frightful struggle which had been going on between man and beast.

Reduced by Dyspepsia to a mere Skeleton.

Cured by "Boerhave's Holland Bitters."—Mr. A. Matheis, who probably is well known as any man in Western Pennsylvania, states as follows: "I met with a farmer in Armstrong county who was reduced by Dyspepsia to a mere skeleton. I persuaded him to buy a bottle of Boerhave's Holland Bitters, believing it would cure him. Meeting him some months after, what was my astonishment at finding him hale, hearty, and robust, and that this wonderful change had been produced by Boerhave's Holland Bitters to which he attributed solely his restoration."

For sale by T. H. Logan & Co., and Logan, List & Co., Wheeling.

The peculiarities of the female constitution and the various trials to which the sex is subjected, demands an occasional recourse to stimulants. It is important, however, that these shall be of a harmless nature, and at the same time accomplish the desired end. Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters is the very article. Its effect in all cases of debility are almost magical. It restores the tone of the digestive organs, infuses fresh vitality into the whole system, and gives the cheerfulness to the temperament, which is the most valuable of feminine attractions.—The proprietors feel flattered from the fact that many of the most prominent medical gentlemen in the Union have bestowed encomiums upon the Bitters, the virtues of which they have frequently tested and acknowledged. There are numerous counterfeits for sale, all of which are devoid of merit, and positively injurious to the system.
